Subject: Allegiant 8900 Matrix System

To Whom It May Concern:

We would like to thank you for selecting Bosch video surveillance product for your security projects over the years. As a valued customer of Bosch, we wanted to make you aware well in advance in a change that will be taking place at the end of the year.

Bosch can confirm, as per our current business plan, that the Allegiant LTC8600 / LTC8800 / LTC 8900 series matrix switcher/controller as well as the Allegiant accessories will remain active products at least through the balance of 2016. The accessory products include, but are not limited to code mergers, keyboards, alarm interfaces, signal distribution units, translators and other ancillary devices.

However, we recognize that budgets need to be arranged and time passes quickly, so we are strongly advising all Allegiant owners begin preparing for this phase out by looking at needs for spare parts. We need you to supply your last time buy requirements to Bosch by August 1st for our consideration and planning. Should conditions change and/or warrant further notification, Bosch will be providing you an update.

In addition, please be assured that Bosch will provide support and service for an additional four years beyond the actual end-of-life date.

Should you have any questions, please contact the undersigned.

Sincerely,

Robert Drob
